Emergency Hospital Directors Meet. A meeting of the board of directors of the Emergency Hospital and Central Dispensary was held Friday night in the main room of th hospital, and several matters of interest were acted upon. A number of by-laws were adopted in accordance with the recommenda-adopted in accordance with the recommendations of the commissioner of charities, among the most important being one which makes the health officer and sanitary officer of the District of Columbia ex-officio members of the board of directors of the hospital. Another was that the commissioner of charities should be advised of all meetings of the board, and should have the privilege of attending. Also that the resident physician of the hospital shall be in charge of one or more of the poor districts of the District of Columbia.

Commissioner Warner believes one of the chief needs of the hospital is an ambulance service, and promised his influence in securing it. The board was very greatly pleased at this, and one of the members said that he felt satisfied they would get it.

Dr. J. Ford Thompson and Dr. W. W. Johnston were elected members of the consulting staff of the hospital.

Horses in the Streets.

To the Editor of The Evening Star: To guard against other accidents similar t that by which Mrs. Clarke lost her life the police should be instructed not to allow a horse ridden or led in the streets without a bit in the In the latter case the man should be on foot and lead both horses. Otherwise he has no control over cither. Almost any horse that has spirit will believe badly on the street unless he has a bit in his mouth.

THE ECLIPSE LAST NIGHT. Clouds Obscured the View and the Moon

Not only is the moon herself supposed to have been in eclipse last night, but in fact the whole eclipse was hidden from the view of observers in this part of the country. During the day the weather was both clear and cloudy Virginia, increasing southeasterly winds and but still it was hord that the clouds would blightly warmer; threatening weather and but still it was hord that the clouds would be still before the time when the clear up completely before the time when the shadow. This hope proved a vain one, for as of the observers at the naval observatory to use the large equatorial telescope, the small equatorial and the comet finder. Although the on appeared for a brief time before totality it could not be seen at all during totality, and the plan of observation could not be carried out.

> The eclipse was observed under the mo favorable circumstances in Boston, as the sky was cloudless. At Harvard photographs were taken, the plates being exposed ten minutes. The plates were immediately developed and examined, the principal object of the observation being to de-

Prof. Young, the well-known Princeton astronomer, had planned to make a series of very careful observations of the occultations of the smaller stere by the moon. During the periods when the moon's face was visible through the clouds a very curious and as yet unexplained phenomenon was observed, namely, that the astern part of the great satellite's face was decidedly darker than the western part. To what cause this may be due Prof. Young was unable

The eclipse was viewed with scientific care from the astronomical observatories at Haver ford College and the Philadelphia High School. At the latter institution Prof. Monroe B. Snyder was on hand with a class of fifty students. was on hand with a classof lity stidents. The cloudy weather that prevailed during the ad-vent and consummation of the eclipse was a great disappointment to Prof. Snyder, as it prevented all accurate views. At 7:52, however, just before totality of eclipse was reached, the sky cleared and the atmosphere became very propitious. The professor had hoped during the time of totality to observe the hamersion and emersion of the stars, which can be viewed with great accuracy at this period. only stars that he distinguished, however, were of the eighth and tenth magnitude. One of each size was seen in emersion at 7:53 44. This was the most important scientific observation that was made.

THE VISITORS WON. The Schuylkill Navy and the Columbi

Athletic Team's Foot Ball Game. The foot ball game between the elevens from the Columbia Athletic Club and the Schuylkill navy Saturday afternoon was one of the hardest fought battles seen here in many a day. The two teams were remarkably well matched, and any one's game. In the first half so evenly did | begun. things go that neither side could score a point, but when the second half began it was evident that the visitors were putting up a stronger game than the local eleven, having improved considerably over the first half, while the latter fell off decidedly in their work. A large crowd turned out to see the game and they went away satisfied at seeing a plucky game, even if the result was not what had been hoped for. The moon was shining before the game was finally ended.

The umpire in the first half was Mr. Binder of the Pennsylvania Military Academy of Ches-ter, Pa., and J. W. Welsh was referee. In the second half J. M. Dashiell was umpire and Mr. Binder referee. The game began with the ball n the possession of the A. C. S. N.
In the second half the trouble began for the home team by Bob Church making a muff of Force's kick. Woodruff got the ball and made a touch down and Vail kicked goal. Just before time expired Hulme made the second touch down, but Vail failed to kick goal. This was all the scoring done and time was called with the score standing 10 to nothing in favor of the Philadelphia boys.

The teams were as follows:

to the Editor of The Evening Star: It is a great satisfaction to visit the Capitol in its present cleanly condition, and the contrast to its appearance on the closing days of Congress is so painfully vivid as to suggest whether some method cannot be devised to prevent the disgracefully filthy aspect with which it greeted the throngs, of visitors who filed through those spacious staircases and corridors on the 4th of March last, which were literally infaid with tobacco mosaic. This might agree with the esthetic taste of some, but it must be very offensive to the cultured and refined. It may be a libel on the solons who gather there to suspect them of such personal uncleanly habits, and if owing to the great horse's mouth and no man mounted to lead army of the unwashed who sometimes frequent those halls, blind to the beauty of unviained in the latter case the man should be on foot
